THOMAS CARLYLE'S WIFE what Mr. Carlyle might have been but for dyspepsia," Doubtless dyspepsia was the cause of his gloom and irritability. Had he taken Ayre's Pills he would have been a healthier and happier man.

"I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was continually afflicted with Headache and Dizziness. After trying various remedies, I finally began to use Ayer's Pills, and soon my appetite improved, my bowels were regulated, and I became well." -D. M. Logan, Wilmington, Del.

Latest Telegrams to The Star. THAT GIGANTIC COAL TRUST. The Syndicate Said to be Entirely Amer-

New York, June 22.-Rumors that a gigantic coal trust is in process of formation stirred up Wall street yesterday, and were generally regarded as not at all improbable. Some brokers said that an English syndicate had been formed to buy up all the coal companies and to guarantee individual operators who would join the trust a profit of 25 cents per ton on all coal mined. Another report was that the alleged syndicate is entirely American and that Austin Corbin and Sam Sloan are back of it. At the offices of the various coal roads nobody could be found who was willing to talk about the proposed coal trust. It is believed that the ef-forts which are now being made to break the Reading voting trust are inspired by the syndicate, who can better carry their plan into effect with the Reading shares scattered. It would take an immense capital to carry out the scheme. The market value of the stocks of the great coal roads and mining companies is $136,000,000. The companies which it would be necessary to have in the trust are the Read-ing, Lehigh Valley, Jersey Central, Lacka-wanna, Delaware and Hudson, Pennsylvania,

A PITIFUL STORY. An Arkansas Farmer Loses His Wife and Seven Children in a Flood.

LITTLE ROCK, June 22.—Although the loss of life in the Conemaugh valley was much greater, the result of that dreadful disaster still fresh in the minds of those who have followed the newspaper accounts of the flood, it has a sequel, the facts of which were given last night to a Gazette reporter by Capt. "Newt." Faulkinbury, the deputy United States mar-shal, and a more pitiful story is rarely heard of occurring as it did nearer home.

On his trip to Conway and Van Buren counties the other day he learned that during a heavy rainstorm in that section of the state last Saturday night an old man named Emmerson had the misfortune to lose his wife and seven children in a flood. As near as he could learn there had been a tremendous rain near Clinton, the county seat of Van Buren county, on the upper Red river, and it was near this

THE DISTRESSING SCENE TOOK PLACE. Emmerson, who is an old settler in Van Buren county, was with his family in his house at night when the storm was raging. After an hour's rain the water gradually flooded his house, and fearing danger inside he gathered two of his children in his arms and made for the door to escape. As the door opened a huge log afloat dashed in the entrance and knocked the little ones from his arms. They fell at his feet into the swift current and were lost. He then took up two more, one in each arm, and succeeded in getting out with them safely, telling his wife to follow with the others, but in attempting to escape in the same manner the mother, with two children in her arms and three clinging to her dress, was carried with the flood and drowned.

ONLY THE FATHER AND TWO CHILDREN SAVED. The father and two children, the only ones left in a family of eleven, escaped with their lives. The night was dark, and the father, with the only two survivors, stood in water above the waist, clinging to a tree for several hours, and when the waters subsided in the morning a search was made, and the dead bodies of the mother and seven children were discovered scattered here and there for a coning having caught in underbrush and the bodies held fast in that way. Two of the bodies were found in the garden lot, a short distance from the house, to where they had been carried by the force of the water, and others as far as sixty yards from the house. Capt. Faulkinbury saw a neighbor last Wed-nesday who said he had assisted in BURYING THE WHOLE FAMILY. Next day he was told that it was the heaviest storm that has ever visited that section of the state, describing it as a water spout, and al though it lasted but a short while it worked a loss of life and property that cannot be easily estimated. The home of Mr. Emmerson is a total wreck, and he is almost distracted with grief. Further than this Capt. Faulkinbur could learn nothing definite, except that the loss of live stock and damage to property was great. If others suffered a like fate as befel Emmerson, he was unable to find it out.

AN ELOPEMENT SENSATION. The Daughter of a Canadian Justice Weds a Railway Employe.

OTTAWA, ONT., June 22.- A profound sensation was created in social circles this morning when it became known that Miss L. Taschereau. daughter of Justice Taschereau, of the supreme court, and niece of Cardinal Taschereau, had eloped a few days ago and returned to the city to-day the wife of Mr. W. L. Baird, an employe of the Canadian Atlantic rhilway. The Taschereau family is one of the old French families of Quebec, and many of its members occupy high positions in church and state circles. Young Baird is the son of an English clergyman and came to Ottawa several years ago, securing a subordinate position as clerk in the offices of the railway. He became acquainted with Miss Taschereau about a year ago, and the young couple became fast friends lespite the furious opposition of the young lady's family. The young couple met secretly and a few days ago they disappeared. To-day they returned to the city man and wife, having been married by a Protestant clergyman. The parents and relations of the young lady threaten to take steps to have the marriage annulled, as she is Roman Catholic and was married. without the consent of her parents, by a Protestant clergyman.

HIS STRONG HOLD ON LIFE. Morris Adler Still Breathes, but His Death Hourly Expected.

CHICAGO, June 22.—The Washington park FRANK WARD'S LIFE IN JAIL-WHAT HE SAYS ABOUT THE SHOOTING OF ADLES-HE NEVER CARRIED A PISTOL BEFORE-HE DENIES USING A REMARK ABOUT JEWS ATTRIBUTED TO HIM.

> Since yesterday afternoon there has been no change in the condition of Morris Adler, the young man who was shot by F. K. Ward on Tuesday night while the two were in the Marble saloon. Adler's death may be looked for at any time. In fact, his living so long is one of the peculiarities of the case which puzzles the doctors. He may possibly last for two or three days longer, but the general belief among those who are acquainted with the case is that dissolution will probably take place within twenty-four hours. FRANK WARD'S QUARTERS IN JAIL.

> Just as comfortable as man could be under the circumstances is F. K. Ward. Nowhere in the District is the sun's intense heat less powerful than it is in the United States jail, and the atmosphere in the institution is probably as pure as any that can be found along the shores of the Eastern branch. The most pleasant portion of the institution, so far as prisoners are concerned, is the southern side, and in the third tier, in cell No. 102, is F. K. Ward. The cell is a double one, 10 feet square and 10 feet high, with ample light and ventilation. It is the most attractive cell in the prison, for loving hands have contributed to make everything as comfortable as possible for e present occupant. Bedding was furnished by Mrs. Ward, and in many places is there testi-mony of woman's care and thoughtfulness. Everything is as neat and clean as a new pin, but the heavy walls, the barred windows, the massive locks and bolts, all preclude the possi-bility of contentment—the place is a prison after

HIS LIFE IN THE PRISON. Mr. Ward has been an early riser for the last three mornings, and he has eaten a fair proportion of food. At 8 o'clock-the regular hour-he eats his breakfast, which is served to him in a tin box, just as it is to the other pris-oners. The meal consists of half a loaf of wheat bread (about eight ounces), a tin quart cup of on 5th street place, South Boston, collapsed coffee, a fish, which may be either a mackerel or a herring, and potatoes, or hash. Besides this he has been served with beefsteak, which is left at the jail early every morning for him. The rules permit him this luxury, but the meat has to be prepared in the jail kitchen.

From 9 to 3 o'clock Mr. Ward receives such visitors as he desires to see. They have been very numerous. Friends of to-day and friends of years ago have made haste to proffer their sympathy and their aid. Mrs. Ward is a regular visitor. Most of those who call see the prisoner in the rotunda, but the authorities have allowed the husband and wife to converse in the office.

At 3 o'clock dinner is passed around in the tin boxes. A quart of the best vegetable soup cook ever compounded is the most palatable feature of this meal. Accompanying it is a pound of boiled beef. The prisoner may make his selection between half a pound of wheat bread or one pound of corn bread. Rice is also served. In addition to these articles of diet quett was wounded in the head, but not danger-ously. The Sentinel had accused Faquett of getting drunk at a recent picnic. Faquett de-manded an apology, which was refused, and sees to it that he is supplied with all he can eat. He takes a fair amount of exercise in the corridor, but has not vet become accustomed to the situation, and naturally shrinks from meeting the other prisoners. Before his arrest Mr. Ward was a steady smoker, but now he consumes but little tobacco. By 8 p. m. he is in his cell, and in an hour is asleep, after having eaten, as a lunch, the fruit and bread he saved from his dinner. To-morrow the 3 o'clock meal will be varied by the substitution of bacon and cabbage for beef.

WARD'S WIFE AND SON VISIT HIM. This morning Mrs. Ward, accompanied by Henry Lyles. their only child, a bright boy of about fifteen r sixteen years of age, had a long conversation with her husband in the warden's office. Mrs. Ward is doing her utmost to cheer her husband up and to prevent him from settling down into a condition of confirmed melancholy. In this she was quite successful to-day, but the effects of her visit soon wore off.

Although it is very evident that Mr. Ward is suffering to a serious extent from depression. still it is certain that the change brought about by his act has not been injurious to his general health. Physically he has improved somewhat. His eyes are clear as they were years ago and his color is more natural. Dr. Mc-Williams told a Stan reporter that Ward's health was good in every respect.

AN EMPHATIC DENIAL BY THE PRISONER. Not long after Mrs. Ward's departure the prisoner, who had returned to his cell, came down stairs to talk with THE STAR reporter. "I do want to say to you, most emphatically," he began, "that I never used the remark at-tributed to me about "the Jew." No one ever heard me, in all my life, use the term 'Jew' in a disparaging way. For years I have dealt among the Jews, and a great many of them are among my best friends to-day. They always treated me fairly and I liked to carry on business with them. Then, again, I never knew this man Adler was a Jew; I'm not sure that I knew his last name. To me he was 'Morris.' I had not the slightest idea as to who were his relatives. I did not know he was Henry Adler's son until Wednesday morning when somebody told me at the police station. Why I have known the Adlers for years without ever suspecting that this man, who is one of the unfor-tunates in this affair, was any connection of theirs. A "COMBINATION OF CIRCUMSTANCES." "Do you know," he continued, "that only a couple of hours before the shooting occurred I | tion. was going up 15th street, past the Treasury department, in my wagon, and I met this poor fellow's father. I asked him to jump in and ride up to see the wrecked canal, but he excused himself and went on his way down street.

My having the pistol in my pocket was a clear accident. I never carried a pistol before in all my life. The combination of circumstances that lead to the affair is hard to understand." WASHINGTON NEWS AND GOSSIP.

CLUDING NEW YORK AND CHICAGO LIMITED.—
The damage to track and bridges caused by the late storm on the line of the Pennsylvania railroad has been completely repaired, after two weeks of arduous and incessant labor, and the restoration of the road to its old form is so complete that the regular schedule will, on Monday, June 24, be resumed on all trains, including the celebrated New York and Chicago limited. All other through trains were restored on June 15, but as it was doubted whether the fast schedule of the limited could be maintained in the then condition of the roadway it was, in justice to the public, withheld until the repairs to the track were so perfect that fast time could be made throughout the limited will, on Monday, leave Washington at 950 a.m., and run to Cincinnati and Chicago as of old. Pussengers by this train, both west and east-bound, sujoy an excellent opportunity of seeing the ruin caused by the flood in both the Junista and Concennagh valleys. BEECHAMS PILLA
